

HOSPITAL BOARD
HOLDS ITS LAST MEETING OF YEAR

Chairman Curt Smith, in opening the meeting of the hospital board of Thursday evening referred with feeling to the loss sustained to the community by the demise of Mrs. J. Christopher. Her connection with the hospital as a former matron and later as a member of the hospital board, and her holding of the position as secretary of the Ladies' Hospital Aid, made her loss the greater. Mr. Smith spoke of her active and ardent work in these capacities and moved that the hospital board extend its sympathy to the bereaved husband.

A letter respecting proposed liability assurance to cover claims by patients against the hospital was late

The thanks of the board were sent to E. N. Rattray for the payment of $500.00 on the M.D. of Bigstone grant.

Chairman Smith gave a report showing that the cost per patient per hospital day was $3.75.

Accounts amounting to $433.40 were passed for payment.

Mayor Montgomery, on behalf of the council, spoke of his appreciation of the work done by the members of the hospital board and expressed the council's thanks for carrying on the work, which he said had been done as efficiently and economically as it was possible to do.

Chairman Smith, in concluding the business of the board for another year expressed his thanks for the cooperation of the members during the year. The hospital was the most important department in the city and by the work done they were making the city in. He thanked the members for their untiring efforts and for all the outside help they had received and thanked the different societies and organizations for their donations and the municipalities for their grants, concluding by wishing everyone a ted against Leon R. Zurowski, for breach of contract in failing to deliver his wheat to the pool, was dismissed with costs in a written judgment handed down by Mr. Justice J. F. Embury yesterday in the court of King's bench.

In his defence Zurowski alleged the pool was a primary grain dealer within the meaning of the Canada grain act and could not carry on business without first obtaining a license which it did not do; that the contract was bad as being in restraint

In his judgment, his lordship, after declaring the evidence is clear the plaintiffs are primarily occupied in handling grain for their shareholder members, says: "Such being the case I can see no special circumstances which would exclude the plaintiff

"Although the plaintiffs are primarily grain dealers under the provisions of the Canada Grain act, the provisions of the Canada Grain act requiring grain dealers to take out a license, is on the above authorities ultra vires of the parliament of the Dominion of Canada."

DORA, THE DESPISED

Sarah Tuttle met her sister-in-law as she was coming out of Blahy's. Sarah had just given Blahy a lengthy order which would be filled later; she never carried home a parcel even when she went shopping in her car. "If you buy of a storekeeper it's his business to see that your purchases are delivered," she always said.

It was a clear, spring-like afternoon and Sarah, who was going to make a call or two before going home, wore her new dress hat. It was made of fur and they green feathers with two costly black tips over one side. The fur on her hat matched her coat the muff and the green of the crown matched her dress. For the rest, Sarah was just as big and blond and bumptious as any woman who eats of the best, sits on soft chairs, buys the best complexion cream and has her own way with her husband, her children and her relatives.

When Sarah saw her sister-in-law she lifted her eyebrows. Dora Tuttle, small and brown from tip to toe, was carrying a basket in which already lay one or two parcels. She answered Sarah's lifted brows with a smile.

"Now what makes you do that?" Sarah inquired.

"Do what?"

"Go round and pick up your purchases in a basket in the middle of an afternoon on a Thursday like this." Dora flushed faintly.

"Lots of people carry baskets nowadays," she replied. "I rather like to. And then I save the expense of delivery."

"What does a few cents amount to?" Sarah demanded.

"Well, we've got two boys to send through college."

Sarah had no children and she did not like her nephews.

"All the same," she said, "it gives you a peevish look. I wish you'd remember that." She went on, her head very high, her cheeks rosy, and a skilful touch of "Dolly Varden" warranted.

"That woman," she thought angrily, "will be the social ruin of the Tuttle family. She has no pride, no refinement. Now I know that George Tuttle gets the same money out of the business that John, my husband, does, but it's Dora's pleasure to skip and fuss and bother over trifles. She clings to that old house instead of having a new one like ours; she wears her clothes forever and she goes shopping with a basket. I've tried my best to teach her what's proper, but if she won't learn it isn't my fault, and I'm not going to bother about it."

Sarah had never forgiven her husband's brother and partner for marrying Dora. She said to herself, sometimes she even said it to her husband, that if George Tuttle hadn't been such a fool he would never have married her. John Tuttle had an opinion or two of his own, but he kept it between his teeth, for Sarah was not to be argued with. Meanwhile, he and George got along very nicely together, and Dora did not quarrel with Sarah, who was always urging some improvement up on her.

Sarah turned sharply at the corner of Locust street and walked up to the door of the old Bennett house, recently purchased by Durian Reed Holding, the new president of the bank. Sarah had known Mrs. Holding when they were school girls, but she had not seen her in years. She counted a good deal upon Mrs. Holding's friendship now and meant to "rush" her as much as she would be allowed.

The maid said that Mrs. Holding was at home and took Sarah into the drawing room. Sarah had already got a good estimate of her surroundings when Mrs. Holding appeared. Sarah's first glance at Mary showed her that the banker's wife was the exactly opposite of her sister-in-law. The farmer's daughter had been. Her greeting was none the less effusive for that. She kissed Mary, hung onto her hands, showered her with friendliness, admiration and the spirit of old times.

"It seems a thousand years since we played tag around the Dingel-dee school house," she sighed.

Mary seemed to take a calm back at the look.

"I have lost track of all my old playmates for years," she said. "Perhaps I should even have ceased to recall them if I had not come back to the old locality to live. By the way, what has become of Dora Still?"

Sarah stiffened a little.

"She grew up and married like the rest of us," she answered.

"Do you know where she married?"

"Yes. If you must know, she married my husband's brother."

"And she lives in this place?"

"Yes." Was there to be no end to this questioning? Sarah was becoming exasperated. "To be perfectly frank with you, Mary, I have as little as possible to do with Dora. She is absolutely impossible." A cool unbelief in Mary's eyes urged her on.

"She has no style, no refinement, no taste. She was pretty when George married her, and I suppose that was what lured him. But she lost her looks long ago. She hasn't any sort of her own, and I certainly wouldn't think of seeing her into mine. Of course, seeing that my husband and George are in business together, I have to keep up a certain friendliness with Dora. I suppose when I have to and once a year I have George and her and the boys at my house to dinner."

"Oh, she has sons, then?" murmured Mary.

"Two. They're good enough boys. But the fact is, I don't know very much about them."

Sarah came away from Mrs. Holding's feeling that she had "done" for Dora, and promoted herself immeasurably in the interest of the new grand lady of the town. She planned to have the Holdings to dinner. "It will be a good way to show off the house to her," she thought. "I shall have plenty of flowers and John can play those new music rolls he's so crazy about. And I shall wear my new crepe de Chine; the house will be so warm that I shall not need anything thin."

Two days later, having set the scene, Sarah called Mrs. Holding up on the telephone and invited her.

"I'm so sorry," replied the grand lady's quick voice, "but we have accepted an invitation for tomorrow evening."

Sarah hung up the receiver angrily. Everything was ordered. She would ask the Cranes. It was well to keep on good terms with Belle Crane, although she did not like her any too well.

The Cranes accepted. It was just after the song had been placed that Belle Crane said:

"By the way, the George Tuttle are giving a dinner tonight. They lived next door to the George Tuttle, and like Sarah, had little to do with them."

"A dinner!" Sarah's eyebrows went up as far as they could. "I don't know that Dora ever gave dinners. Do you know who she has?"

"Yes. She has Mr. and Mrs. Holding."

Sarah's foot jerked and touched the bell under the table. The maid appeared. Sarah motioned her out with a wave of her hand and her Charlotte wondered what made the madam's face look so red and hot.

"Oh, yes," said John, blandly. "George told me that his wife and Mrs. Holding had met and renewed an old friendship. Very nice, I think."

He was looking at his son and did not see Sarah's stare. She was experiencing some very strange emotions.

"What is this soup, my dear?" asked John, innocently.

Sarah drew a deep breath.

"Green turtle," she answered.

LACOMBE WINS FROM PONOKA

Lacombe, Dec. 12.—The Lacombe hockey team, champions of the Central Alberta league, last year, showed their superiority over Ponoka intermediates, champions of the province, in an exhibition game played in the local arena last night by a score of two to one. The game was full of thrills and both teams played fast hockey in all but one period.

U. S. INVITED BY LEAGUE TO ARMS PARLEY

Geneva, Dec. 14.—The United States was invited on Saturday afternoon by the League of Nations council to share in the work of framing an arms conference under league auspices for next year.

This invitation followed council's ratification of similar requests to Russia, Germany, and a group of lesser nations to sit with ten council members on the disarmament conference preparation commission, which will convene here February 15.

The conference intended to mark a new stage in delimitation of land armaments, is planned as a sequel to the security work accomplished at Locarno. The agreements entered into at Locarno were formally registered with the league by the signatories Saturday, in keeping with the league policy of having international agreements recorded openly in Geneva.

While the armament situation took more concrete form with agreement on a program of procedure, negotiations were also proceeding looking toward banishing the poison of war threat contained in the Mussolini mandate dispute.

The Turks had found themselves balked in their attempt to get France to intervene, and there appeared many signs that the league council is preparing a pro-British decision on the dispute, allowing the Turks time, however, to get from the British conditions of operation in a friendly spirit before an arbitrary award is made by the council.

A MARRIAGE

Young Isaac had become engaged to a country girl. As he was about to leave London for a visit to his home, his father took him aside for a bit of advice.

"My boy," he said, "you know I've got your welfare at heart. I want you to make a good marriage. But you must be businesslike. The girl's father must come down with something handsome. If he is an honest man he ought to put down $1,000. If he is bankrupt, say $2,000. And, if which we hope not, he is in prison, den you should ask for $5,000, no less."

With filial respect for the old man's suggestion he heeded, and the next day telegraphed his father:

"He was hanged six years ago, what amount do you advise?"

The Bad Cold of To-day May Be Serious Tomorrow

The cold may start with a little running of the nose, the head becomes stuffed up, but little attention is paid to it, thinking perhaps it will pass away in a day or two. You neglect it, and then it gets down into the throat and from there to the lungs, and becomes a case of coughing morning, noon and night.

However slight a cold you have you should never neglect it, for if you do it is just possible that it will develop into bronchitis, pneumonia or some other serious throat or lung trouble.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

is an universal remedy for all those who suffer from any form of bronchial trouble, as it stimulates the weakened organs, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to clear away the morbid accumulations.

RESERVE JUDGMENT IN ALBERTA CASE

London, Dec. 15.—In the appeal to the privy council in the case of the attorney general of Alberta versus Cook, the judicial committee of the privy council reserved judgment.

The argument of counsel was chiefly on obscure legal points concerning the matrimonial laws of several provinces in the dominion.

The action was brought by a wife against her husband for divorce in the supreme court of Alberta. One of the questions at issue was as to whether the wife, after having procured a judicial separation from her husband, could acquire a domicile of her own separate from that of her husband so as to establish jurisdiction for a divorce. It was alleged that the husband was never domiciled in Alberta but was domiciled in the province of Ontario.

There was also the contention that marriage and divorce fell within the jurisdiction of the dominion parliament alone and not within the jurisdiction of a province.

CANADIAN NATIONAL OIL-ELECTRIC CARS

An oil-electric Canadian National car recently travelled from Montreal to Vancouver over Canadian National lines in 67 hours, record-breaking time. The car left Montreal on the first of November, 16 hours after the Continental Limited had pulled out. It caught up with the Continental Limited at Winnipeg and arrived 22 hours ahead at Vancouver, beating the system's speediest steam-driven locomotives by a day and a half with two hours to spare. The distance, 2,337 miles, was covered at an average speed of 43.5 miles an hour. The car has been placed on a local run between Edmonton and Vermilion. Oil-electric cars have so far been built for the National railways. Two are large, with a length of 102 feet and seats for 126 passengers. The other cars are smaller and accommodate 60 persons each. An oil-electric car is self-contained. Its fuel oil, a by-product of the refinement of crude oil into gasoline, is burned in an engine at one end of the car, which operates an electric generator, the source of energy. The new type of cars were at first thought suitable for use only on branch lines. On three eastern lines of the National system an oil-electric service has been instituted with good success. But now that a journey across the Dominion has been made in one of the cars, it is thought likely that the whole business of transportation on its mechanical side may be revolutionized.

New Zealand is the richest country per head of population in the world, and leads all in exports per head.

FAREWELL TO MRS. EASTERBROOK

Following the service in the United church on Sunday evening, many friends representing the congregation, choir and ladies' aid, met at the home of Mrs. J. Easterbrook to spend an hour with Mrs. F. Easterbrook, who, with her family are leaving on Tuesday for Montreal where Mr. Easterbrook, with his sons George and Almo, have been for some time.

After singing several selections, Mr. Graham, in a few appropriate remarks, made reference to the loss to the community of one of its talented families, the field of usefulness opening up in the new home, and conveying to her the best wishes of the Millet congregation, among whom she has been a valued worker.

Delicious refreshments were served and the hour closed in singing "Blest be the tie that binds."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HAD ANNUAL MEETING

The Millet Women's Institute held its annual meeting in the community hall on Wednesday, December 9. The president occupied the chair. An application was made to the department for a three days' millinery course. A new range for the rest room was purchased. The secretary read the report of the year's work, showing a surplus after all bills were paid, including the payment and interest on the rest room, and buying plaster board to finish the interior. All business being concluded, Mrs. Woods took the chair and Mrs. Leslie Marr acted as secretary. The following officers were then elected: Pres.—Mrs. Ross (re-elected). 1st vice Pres.—Mrs. Hoskins. 2nd vice Pres.—Mrs. Fraser. Sec.—Mrs. Phillips (re-elected).

Directors—Mrs. Facey, Mrs. Lloyd Marr, Mrs. Wright. Program committee—Mrs. Howes, Mrs. Leslie Marr, Mrs. Hoskins. Auditors—Mrs. West, Mrs. Woods. The meeting closed by singing "God Save the King," and a social hour followed.

PLIGHT OF FARMERS IN BRITAIN SHOWN

Northampton, Dec. 14.—Speaking at the annual dinner of the Northamptonshire branch of the National Farmers' Union here Saturday night, H. H. Ernest G. Prettiman declared that the farmers' case was absolutely the same as that of the coal owners in that they had a statutory wage to meet and they had not the money to do it. They did not ask for a subsidy of £20,000,000, he added, but a duty on imported barley, the revenue from which should be devoted to the encouragement of wheat growing.

CONTROL LAST POST FUND IN EDMONTON

Edmonton, Dec. 14.—Efforts to have control of the Last Post fund for northern Alberta vested in the Edmonton committee reached fruition on Friday, when a dispatch from Montreal indicated that a sub-committee for the northern half of the province had been granted to this city.

Hitherto all claims for the funeral expenses of a soldier dying in this district in indifferent circumstances have had to be forwarded to the provincial branch of the Last Post fund at Calgary, and for some time local officials have been urging that the Edmonton branch be given greater authority in this connection. Granting of a sub-committee to this city marks a success in conclusion of negotiations.

DR. TUTTLE SPEAKS IN THE DISTRICT

Rev. Dr. Tuttle, principal of Alberni College South, spent Sunday on the millet charges, delivering addresses to the congregations on "Some simple and correct rules for interpreting the Scriptures." Dr. Tuttle said that the purpose for which the Bible was written was to teach religion, and since the teaching of religion is today that man's relation to God and to his fellow man—was its real purpose, it is absurd to come to the Bible as a text book on science and history, as nearly all are trying to do today. The Bible was written in a pre-scientific age, and so the writers took the then known and commonly accepted notions about the world, and used them as a basis for conveying religious truth to the minds of the people. The great eternal undying truth that God made the heavens and the earth was what the author of the beautiful creation story wanted to make known. That statement is as true for today as it was then and always will remain so. But as to how God created His universe, they had not the means of knowing as we of today have; and so they described a process in picturesque poetry according to the ideas of their times, and their contribution under divine inspiration, is a permanent revelation to the human race.

Concerning the rule for interpreting prophecy, it is necessary to know that the prophecies of the Old Testament were largely preaching—current vivid preaching and only in a small degree predictions. The prophecies, true to the eastern type of mind, painted pictures in speech to convey their great and burning messages, and, in order to challenge the imagination of their hearers and readers, they filled the background of their pictures with vivid and sometimes startling details, such as the moon being turned into blood and the sun into smoke, never dreaming that their hearers and readers would read a literal meaning into those details, and so largely obscure the central truth that he wished to set forth. But very little is what large sections of men in modern western world are doing today—reading into the details of the prophets' pictures meaning never intended by the authors. Such interpreters of scripture are reading the minds of a people with notions of great cataclysms which seem to take place in the world and declaring such things must come to pass "because they are in the Bible."

It is the spiritual message of scripture that counts, and not the form of dress in which it appears. "The letter kills, the spirit gives life."

INCREASE IN EXPORT OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

Canada's exports of butter for the twelve months ending with September totalled $4,327,549 pounds, valued at $12,566,324 compared with 15,036,299 pounds, valued at $5,562,742 in the previous year, and of cheese 147,292,000 pounds, valued at $31,553,388 compared with 115,245,000 lbs. valued at $21,581,111. Of milk powder the exports were 9,847,000 pounds valued at $4,873,971. Of cashew there was an export of 286,653 pounds valued at $22,225 against 20,659 pounds valued at $2,710. We thus have a gratifying increase of the export of all dairy products for the twelve months ending September last of $7,664,329 pounds valued at $16,216,641, compared with the previous twelve months.

The Old Country Millers Prefer Vancouver Grain

(By J. H. Hodson)

A short paragraph in my daily paper states that millers prefer grain by the western route because they know that there can get straight grades. There is no mixing house, it seems, at Vancouver.

This goes to prove that the Targum royal grain enquiry commission arrived at erroneous conclusions and recommended legislation which is proving detrimental to the interests of the grain producers.

Justice Targum recommended that mixing of grain should be made a legal practice, on what seems rather insufficient grounds, namely: that mixing was done illegally under the old act. But Targum thought that mixing should be confined to government elevators, and subject to government supervision.

However, the Hon. Mr. Cramer one-time leader of the Progressive party with almost a solid following from the west, thought otherwise. He introduced an amendment to the Grain Act which gives any elevator company the privilege of mixing grain whether that grain belongs to the mixer or not. This amendment was carried.

The royal grain enquiry commission was told that Liverpool objected to grain mixing, for I sent that commission a letter from the secretary of the Liverpool Corn Exchange, in which that official was very emphatic on that point. He argued that the farmers of Canada, if they desired the best returns for grain, to do

ARLIE MARKS PLAYERS AT ANGUS THEATRE

After just completing a two weeks engagement at Saskatoon, the Arlie Marks Players are visiting a few towns before their return to Saskatoon for Christmas week. This popular company were booked to play the Empire theatre, Saskatoon for three days, but owing to so many people being unable to gain admittance, the manager of the theatre demanded that they stay for two weeks, which they did, and broke all previous house records. Now they are coming to We-taskiwin and will present two plays exactly as presented in Saskatoon, with the same scenery and the same electrical effects. Miss Marks and her players will change their play each night during their engagement here.
On Friday night they will present Geo. M. Cohan's masterpiece "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" and on Saturday at both matinee and evening they will present "When Dreams Come True." This play has been beautifully mounted and directed, the settings being a delight to the eye, and the acting of the entire company is excellent. Miss Marks is the dainty and winsome leading lady in a clever interpreter of drama and comedy, and is shown to advantage in the two bills to be presented here.

everything in their power to prevent the mixing of grain.

It is to be surmised that Mr. Cramer if not his former colleagues, was aware of the disadvantages to the grain grower, of grain mixing.

The news item referred to above seems to be conclusive in branding the practice as undesirable. It seems, therefore, that the enormous cost of a long drawn out enquiry has not benefitted, but more likely damaged, the interests of the grain grower. It also seems that the former representatives were asleep at the switch when the new Grain Act was up for consideration.

(The Editor of the Wetaskiwin Times has kindly allotted me space
each week in which I propose to discuss the significance of such items as they affect the interests of farmers.
An item of news taken by itself may not appear important, but when considered in relation to a previous item of news or an act that has transpired, assumes a quite different value. It is my intention to deal each week with co-related items and to draw conclusions which, of course, it is not incumbent upon readers to accept as infallible. J.H.H.)
